GIA Streamlines Motor Reporting Process with Myinfo Reporting

Vehicle owners and drivers can experience an improved and accelerated motor accident reporting process with Myinfo Reporting.

SINGAPORE, 8 AUGUST 2024 – The General Insurance Association ("GIA") of Singapore announces the launch of its Myinfo Reporting service. This service will be integrated into the accident reporting process, allowing all Singpass account holders to initiate and pre-fill motor accident reports online before heading to an Accident Reporting Centre ("ARC").

With this integration, vehicle owners and drivers can securely and easily authenticate their identity through Singpass to submit accident scene photos and videos online, eliminating the need for manual form-filling and minimise waiting time. Thereafter, they can proceed to an ARC to complete the reporting process.

"The Myinfo Reporting service offers quicker identity authentication and reduces the risk of inaccurate information provided by motorists. This helps to streamline the accident reporting process," said Mr Ho Kai Weng, Chief Executive of GIA.

The launch of Myinfo Reporting is part of GIA's ongoing efforts to integrate technology into processes to further enhance motorists' experience. The association also launched the Vehicle Accident Report History (VARH) service in February, which allows prospective buyers of second-hand vehicles to understand the accident history of the vehicle prior to purchase by buying a report that shows the dates of accident reports made by owners or drivers of their vehicles for the past six years.

A video of how Myinfo Reporting is incorporated into the accident reporting process can be found here.
